Ash and sludge containing radioactive material, the disposal does not proceed

ツイート 1 Recommend おすすめ チェック

It remains a total of 76 000 tons, including ash and sludge generated in the TEPCO Fukushima Daiichi nuclear power plant accident, the radioactive material was stored in water treatment plants and sewage treatment plants of the prefecture. Concentration is below the standards of most countries can be reclaimed (below 8000 becquerel per kilogram-g), does not proceed disposal.

Sludge containing radioactive cesium. Covered with black liner sheet, are stored in the outdoors (15 days, in the purification plant Okubo, Saitama)

◇ purification plant

The water supply in areas where more than half of the population of the county water treatment plant Okubo (Sakura-ku, Saitama City). Site on the corner, there is a mountain of sandbags covered with black plastic water barrier sheet. It is a sludge containing radioactive cesium. Currently, the water treatment plant Okubo has kept about 26 000 tons.

At first it had been stored in the building, it became a full immediately. Also full well, I began to open storage. Facilities are also made in the floors and walls of the concrete shielding in March this year. I speak with the person in charge "I want to carry-out early if you can. Land for expansion of water treatment facilities only." It took a budget of ¥ 130 million in the construction of facilities of three water treatment plants.

Before the nuclear accident, the sludge was being sold for $ 50-100 Park 1 tons for leveling soil and gardening. In May last year, you will find more than 7000 becquerel sludge per kilo-grams in a water treatment plant Yoshimi (Yoshimi-machi), storage hall began. Currently, sludge amounted to 67 000 tons in total six water treatment plants.

◇ sewage treatment plant

In sewage treatment plants, has kept the ash came to incinerate sewage sludge. Currently extends to a total of about 9000 tons Arakawa water circulation center (such as Toda), and four sewage treatment plants. In May last year, also found ash more than 14 000 becquerel per kilo-gram.

Because they can not be disposed of in the prefecture, the ancient ash was landfilled in the prefecture the ash. But then had been mixed into the cement raw material, mainly to the influence of the cement is a concern in the nuclear accident, it can not be used effectively. Sturdy bag, and now I have managed outdoors under a roof or under the pavement of a sewage treatment plant.

In February this year, the ash is stored in five treatment plants has exceeded 10,000 tons. In order to interfere with sewage treatment, from those less than 6000 becquerels per kilo-gram, we began carrying out the prefecture. However, "we have also concentrated loading of other provinces, do not get on to think" that (Management Division sewer department).
